SLOT-1 SONG IS FINALIST IN MUSIC UNIVERSE CONTEST

AMBLER, PA – December 2, 2009 - The song “GOODBYE MISERY”, written by Debbie Wilson, Dave LaBerge and Rick Denzien, produced by Rick Denzien, and performed by Slot-1 Recording artist LYRA PROJECT, is a finalist in the Music Universe Contest, co-sponsored by AMERICAN SONGWRITER MAGAZINE and UPlaya Music Universe.

Several of the Lyra Project songs rated a “Platinum” Auddy Award, using UPlaya’s “Hit Song Science”, said a spokesman for the slot-1 label. “The fact that this song is a finalist testimony not only to the technology, but to the writer’s originality and the producer’s fine ears”. “Now all we have to do is give the fans a chance to find out about these great Lyra Project songs”.

LYRA PROJECT is a featured artists at the UPlaya Website and has an Uplay Press kit at this link: <http://uplaya.com/artists/lyra-project/info>

Finalists represent an eclectic mix of genres, literally chosen from among thousands of submissions, and competition was very tough.

Songs were chosen based on commercial hit potential and performance using the patented “Hit Song Science”.

LYRA PROJECT is multiple award winner for other songs written and performed by the pop-rock duo Rick Denzien and Debra Lee, which can be heard at <http://www.lyraproject.com>
